Magnates Think Rivalry Between the Teams May Be Keen This Season.

New York, Feb. 3.—Several major league managers have expressed the opinion that the rivalry between the two teams may be extended in another direction the coming season.

"Some of the players who have been such close pals in the past will not be quite so friendly next season," says Will Bill Donovan, of the Cubs, and Johnny McGraw of the Yankees.

They believe that the threatened strike of the players will bring about a change in the attitude of the players toward the managers.

Many of the time we have heard fans remark that the players on opposing teams are too friendly. Visiting each other's clubhouses and benches and chatting in a confidential way during the progress of a game of ball takes something of the spirit of competition from the pastime, they say.

Baseball fans appreciate a game that is a real thing. They want to see the players fight for everything they can get out of a ball game. By this we do not mean that the baseball bug will applaud rowdism, for, speaking in a general sense, he will not. Of course, there is always a sprinkling of fans who enjoy an exhibition of fistfights on the ball field, but the percentage is so small that it is scarcely worth mentioning.

The belief expressed by Bill Donovan was recently repeated by Joe Tinker, manager of the Cubs, who said that members of the fraternity and non-members of the organization held each other aloof. He claims that his failure to keep the Cubs in the pennant race was partly due to factions on his team.

Joe Tinker, who is a member of the fraternity, is always a sprinkling of fans who enjoy an exhibition of fistfights on the ball field, but the percentage is so small that it is scarcely worth mentioning.

Uncle Wilbert Robinson has no patience with the spirit that has invaded the game during the last few years. It is his belief that a majority of the players have unknowingly reached the point where they never worry how a game of ball ends as long as they get their pay. And Robinson was a member of the fighting Baltimore Orioles of the old days, when players didn't get "clubby" on the ball field. They went out there to win and they fought every inch of the way.

Then Demaree was traded to the Cubs by the Phillies and Joe Tinker, who was a member of the fraternity, was appointed director of the club. He responded nobly and made some statements which indicated he was for the fraternity first, last and all the time.

It was just one instance of the divergence of opinion among the players who are frat members. Y' can't find unity there.

BARTELMES-UPHOLDING APPEAL ON TECHNICALITY—KILLEN GETTING RAW END OF DEAL.

Every billiard player in the District today is talking of the protest entered by Charles Bartelmes after his match with Eddie Killen on last Wednesday night.

When he was defeated by the latter in one of the games, 100 to 90 in the District pocket billiard championship, which is now being held at the Grand Central Palace.

The situation responsible for the protest is due to an error of the umpire of the contest. Although this official erred in his judgment, the technicality of the protest appears very important to the followers of the pocket billiard game.

Walter Wallace, who is also a player in this tournament, was handling the official in this case, and since he was agreed upon by both players and Maurice Carfritz, the proprietor of the Grand Central, it appears from a sporting angle that his verdict or decision should be taken as final.

Is a positive fact that Mr. Wallace "pulled a bone" in his ruling on this three-scratch proposition, but it does not seem fair that one player, in any contest, should have a chance of losing and at the same time have a chance of winning, when the other player wins, but he loses.

The situation to Killen appears something like the "heads I win, tails you lose," as this protest was not entered until ten minutes after the game had been completed.

Bartelmes would no doubt have been justified in asking that the game be played over if he had entered his protest at this time, and since he did not, he was delayed in making his appearance on Wednesday night the players and Carfritz agreed to Wallace.

An official decision is now being sought by the interested parties. The highest billiard authorities in the East and will no doubt be made public early this week. The following is the way George Cox explains the plays that caused the protest:

Killen has two scratches and Bartelmes has two. Bartelmes shoots at the bunch and misses, making his third consecutive scratch. Killen asks for a forfeit of all balls on the table, twelve in number, and the referee, Mr. Wallace, a veteran District player and present champion, gives same to Killen. The fifteen balls are now put on the table and Killen gives the cue ball for a break. He shoots into the pocket and the cue ball is in a safe position. This is now Killen's third scratch. Bartelmes jumps up from his chair and asks the referee for the fifteen balls and Wallace does not allow same. The play continues and Killen wins by 100 to 90.
